Our attorneys understand the importance of intellectual property protection for startups, but also understand the budgetary constraints often associated with early-stage companies. We help our startup clients protect their valuable technology assets and establish barriers of entry to maintain a competitive advantage. We work closely with each client to develop an intellectual property protection plan based on that client's goals, objectives, budget and timeline. We also provide the strategic advice and other information necessary for clients to make informed business.

We provide agreements that are specifically tailored to each client's business, which agreements include confidentiality and nondisclosure agreements, invention assignment agreements, employment and independent contractor agreements and the other agreements necessary to protect trade secrets. We also counsel clients on patent, trademark and copyright protection and file and secure applications on their behalf.
