
Taxation

Known for our technical depth and sound judgment, we help businesses, investors and individuals solve complex tax problems in practical ways that support their broader business, legal and financial goals.

Shartsis Friese's taxation attorneys, represent public and private companies, real estate partnerships, investment funds, executives, founders, family offices and tax-exempt organizations. We work closely with our corporate, real estate, family office, and investment funds groups to structure deals, manage exposure across jurisdictions and develop strategies that align with each client's long-term objectives. We also work closely with our Family Wealth Planning group to advise individuals and families with complex assets or cross-border considerations.

With a sophisticated tax controversy practice, we regularly obtain favorable results for clients in complex state and federal audits, appeals, and tax court litigation. Our team has particular experience in emerging areas, such as cryptocurrency audits and the taxation of digital assets, in which we routinely advise clients on the audit implications of decentralized finance protocols and transactions.

The team's combined prior in-house, big law and government experience, allows us to bring a variety of perspectives to every tax issue.
