Noah Metz works with clients to solve complex tax problems and find creative solutions so that business transactions can run smoothly and efficiently.

Noah began his legal career at two of the country's most sophisticated law firms where he developed deep technical expertise in transactional tax matters. Today, he applies that experience to help his clients structure and complete mergers and acquisitions, private equity and hedge fund investments, entity formation and restructuring, and emerging growth transactions.

Across all of his deals, Noah focuses on what matters most to his clients: maximizing post-tax proceeds, minimizing risk, and making tax planning feel less like a headache.
